Cargolux Italia steps up Zhengzhou flights

Milan, 21 October 2015 – Cargolux Italia has introduced a second weekly flight between Milan and Cargolux's Chinese hub Zhengzhou in October. Flight C8 8777 leaves Milan on Sunday mornings at 11:50h and is again routed via Novosibirsk. When Cargolux Italia introduced the first Zhengzhou flight in June, it also marked the first commercial Cargolux service to Russia.

Cargolux Italia's two weekend flights offer shippers a fast and convenient possibility to move their weekday production overseas. From Zhengzhou, shippers take advantage of Cargolux's extensive trucking system to forward goods to other major Chinese markets.

Cargolux Italia offers the only direct air cargo connection between Milan, a major industrial and commercial center in Northern Italy and Zhengzhou, the fastest growing cargo airport worldwide and an important gateway to China. Commodities on this route include Italian fashion goods, machinery and mechanical spare parts.

"With our second service from Milan, Cargolux Italia and the Cargolux Group can significantly boost its presence in both markets," says Pierandrea Galli CEO and Accountable Manager of Cargolux Italia. "It also underlines Cargolux Italia status as the main all-cargo carrier at Malpensa and main supporter of our Italian customers."

Cargolux Italia is the main cargo carrier at Milan's Malpensa airport with a market share of 15%.

About Cargolux Italia
Cargolux Italia was established as a dedicated Italian air cargo carrier in 2008 and began operations from Milan Malpensa in June 2009. Its shareholders are Italia Aerologistics s.r.l. and Cargolux Airlines International S.A. With a fleet of four Boeing 747-400 freighters, the airline is the leading airfreight carrier in Italy today and the main cargo carrier at Milan's Malpensa airport with a market share of 15%. Cargolux Italia employs over 100 staff and, in addition to Zhengzhou, flies to Osaka, Hong Kong, Dubai, Novosibirsk, New York and Los Angeles. With regular flights between Milan and Luxembourg, Cargolux Italia is fully integrated into Cargolux Airline International's worldwide network.
